

Human Rights

Gary Bailey, MSW, ACSW, Associate Professor Simmons College School of Social Work; Immediate Past President National Association of Social Workers and the Chairperson of the National Social Work Public Education Campaign discusses Social Work's role in the "world". We are a global society and need to understand how Social Workers and NASW can impact change on individual, local, national and international levels.

Learning Objectives

1. Participants will gain a basic knowledge of the foundations of social work and how human rights have played a part in the development of social work practice.
2. Participants will learn the importance of advocacy on an individual, local, national and international level.

Reading List

1) Assuring the Sufficiency of a Frontline Workforce: A National Study of Licensed Social Workers .NASW Washington DC

2) The Social Work Congress: A Coming Together of the Profession
<http://www.socialworkers.org/congress/>

3) Social Work reinvestment Initiative Website
<http://www.socialworkreinvestment.org/>